

COMPANY WILL ADD TWO LANE MILLS TO MINES

(From Friday's Daily)
So well pleased are the directors and shareholders of the Arizona Copper Gold Mining Company with the development of its group of mines in the Cherry Creek district that arrangements are now under way to add two new Lane mills to the equipment and to prosecute work on a larger scale than ever before. This decision was reached at an informal meeting of the shareholders and directors in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, on the occasion of a visit there of R. H. Burmister, director and general manager, and J. S. Sessions, superintendent.

Speaking of the company's plans to a Journal-Miner representative yesterday, General Manager Burmister said: "It has been decided to install two new Lane mills, which will increase the treatment capacity to 100 tons every twenty-four hours. This will be commenced in January, when it is expected the machinery will be delivered. One of the mills will be placed on the Bugler mine to treat the output of that and adjoining claims and the other will be added to the ten stamp mill for the treatment of the product of the Leghorn mine. New rock crushers will be used to crush the Bugler ores for the mill to be placed on the Bugler ground and the present ten stamp mill will be used to crush the Leghorn product before it is treated in the new Lane plant. There is plenty of ore in sight now to keep the two plants on a steady run as soon as they are installed. Active development on the mines will be resumed as soon as the machinery is delivered."

General Manager Burmister stated that he had many inquiries concerning Arizona mines during his visit east. "Eastern investors are awakening to the great future of Arizona as a mining country," he said, "and the prejudices against mining as a legitimate investment are disappearing fast. There is plenty of capital lying idle in the eastern banks awaiting investment in mines. Legitimate mining investments will be in great demand next year. In fact, I will be no surprise to me to see greater activity here in 1909 than ever before."

The Arizona Copper and Gold Mining Company's properties are located in the Cherry Creek district, sixteen miles east of Dewey on the Bradshaw Mountain railroad. The district is one of the oldest in the county, but its development has been greatly retarded on account of its isolation from railroad communication until within a few years ago.

BRINGS FANCY ORE FROM SKULL VALLEY

(From Wednesday's Daily)
With samples of gold bearing quartz assaying from $300 to $600 to the ton, George Ual arrived here yesterday from his Hobo group of claims on the Skull Valley and Thumb Butte districts divide. The rich ore was taken out of a shaft forty feet deep in which the paystreak varies from three to nine inches in thickness.

Ual is very enthusiastic over the possibilities of the property and regrets that he is not possessed of sufficient capital to equip and run its development.

The ledge is in a granite and porphyry contact. It is six feet between walls, the entire filling carrying mineral values, in some places, he says, as high as $8 to the ton.

Since coming into possession of the group of three claims and a millsite, he has done over 800 feet of development unaided. These are four tunnels, 250 feet, 70 feet, 80 feet and 50 feet in length respectively in addition to several shafts, in the deepest of which he has the rich paystreak uncovered.

There is an abundance of water and timber on the ground and the property is admirably located from the transportation standpoint as Prieta station on the S. F. P. & P., is only 1,000 feet north.

KILLS MOUNTAIN LION

Loaded with trophies of the chase, Lee Pfau, Joe Archambeau and Joe Hobbs arrived home yesterday afternoon from a week's hunt in the Copper Creek section of the Hassayampa country. They killed a mountain lion, four bucks, two foxes, one wild cat and a skunk, as well as a number of different species of varmint.

The mountain lion is one of the largest seen here in many years. It measures nine feet and eleven inches from tip to tip. It was one of two of the Arizona family of the king of beasts jumped by Archambeau's hounds. The lions started in different directions, a hound chasing each. One was treed and the other escaped. The treed lion was shot by Pfau. He will send the hide to Cincinnati, Ohio, to have it mounted by a taxidermist. The hunters report game plentiful in Copper Creek district and regret the closing of the deer season.

ORES OF TOM REED MINE ARE RICHER WITH DEPTH

One ore shoot 250 feet in length and eight feet in thickness of high grade milling ore is opened in the 250 foot level of the Tom Reed mine, a second shoot of gold ore of shipping grade is opened in another part of the property 150 feet in length on the same level, according to the statement of S. S. Jones, superintendent of the mine, who passed through here Wednesday night on his way to Phoenix.

"There is no question but what the Tom Reed will rank high among the gold producers of the territory many years to come," he said. "It has paid all expenses of operation and development since the mill was started in January and the ores are proving richer with depth. With a body of ore the size mentioned fairly well opened in the 250 foot level that has hardly been touched above the 150 foot level, where it is also under development, it is safe to assume that there will be no reason for a shut-down on account of the lack of ore for some time."

"The equipment, consisting of a ten stamp mill and modern cyanide plant, will be increased soon by the addition of tube mills. This will increase the output considerably. A raise is being run from the 250 foot level for a three-compartment working shaft, now being sunk. When connections are made the shaft will be used as the main outlet of the property."

The mine was considered of questionable value when it passed to the present ownership. Compared with now, there was very little ore in sight. A crosscut was started from the lower drift and after running twenty feet a fair-sized streak of gold ore was encountered. This was followed to its junction with another vein of similar character where the ore streaks joined and swelled to larger proportions. This shoot is now opened 250 feet in length and the end is not yet in sight. It has an average thickness of eight feet. Another richer shoot is opened 150 feet in length. It is fifteen inches in average thickness and of very high grade."

Superintendent Jones stated that he did not care to take the public into his confidence concerning the values of the ores further than to state that the gold returns are remarkably rich, considering the size of the ore bodies.

He stated that there are a number of very promising properties in various stages of development in the Gold Roads district of Mohave county adjacent to the Tom Reed and that miners and mining men anticipate that the mining industry will be more prosperous the coming year than ever in the history of that section of the territory.

BUENA VISTA MINES PROMISES RICH RETURNS

(From Saturday's Daily)

With thirty inches of $20 gold bearing ore on the footwall and six inches of $50 ore on the hanging wall of his shaft in the old Buena Vista mine in the Humboldt district, J. B. Young believes that he and his partner, Patsy Forgarty, are now in a fair way to reap a fortune for their many years of toil, prospecting and opening the Humboldt ledges. Young has been in the city the last three days purchasing supplies and making his annual settlement of his partner's business affairs. He is very hopeful for the future of his district, which has long enjoyed the reputation of being traversed with rich mineral bearing ledges.

The Young and Forgarty properties are located a mile and a half north of Columbia, in what is known as the "Farley and Kay" camp. The claims are adjacent to the Farley and Kay group in the same mineral belt. Young and Forgarty have good sized ore bodies exposed in a number of shafts varying in depth from 35 to 90 feet, notably the ore bodies recently uncovered in the old Buena Vista.

In the last year they and the Castle Hot Springs Improvement Company built a trail from the springs to the camp, bringing the latter within an hour's ride to the terminus of the automobile route at Castle Hot Springs which connects with the S. F. P. & P. railroad at Morristown.

Young says that there are more prospectors and miners in that section than in many years. All through the mountains and gulches from the Farley and Kay camp to the Tip Top mine, where E. G. Wager is doing preliminary work of reopening the famous Tip Top mines, prospectors and miners are found doing annual work on their claims and the location work on recent discoveries.

The construction of an automobile route to the Castle Hot Springs through the district, connecting with the Crown King terminus of the Bradshaw Mountain railroad, is under consideration. A number of companies and miners of the region have already volunteered to subscribe funds for the route, suggesting its possible construction the coming year. The preliminary survey, made last year, passes through a region into which every piece of machinery ever taken west was transported on burros and mules at great expense.

Young will leave for his camp this morning.
